The Price
High-Stakes Family Drama by an American Master

Written by Arthur Miller
Directed by Timothy Bond

ARCHBOLD THEATRE at SYRACUSE STAGE
Running Dates: Jan 27 - February 14
Press Opening: Friday, Jan 29 at 8:00 p.m.

“The Price is one of the most engrossing and entertaining plays that Miller has ever written.” - The New York Times

(Syracuse, NY)—From the author of American classics such as All My Sons, Death of Salesman, and The Crucible, Arthur Miller’s The Price is taut, truthful and deeply engaging. In an overstuffed attic apartment, two long-estranged brothers, one a cop, the other a doctor, agree to meet to sell off what remains of their deceased father’s furniture and find themselves in an emotional renegotiation of the past. Regrets, resentments and recriminations expose the high price each has paid for lost opportunities and lessons learned. Stage’s Producing Artistic Director Timothy Bond directs an accomplished cast of four in this drama of redemptive power.

The Price runs January 27-February 14 at Syracuse Stage. Tickets can be purchased online at www.SyracuseStage.org, by phone at 315-443-3275 or in person at 820 East Genesee Street. The Price is sponsored by Hiscock & Barclay. Media sponsors are The CNY Business Journal, WAER 88.3, and WCNY Connected. Syracuse Stage season sponsors are The Post-Standard and Time Warner Cable. The Price is a co-production with Geva Theatre Center of Rochester, NY.
“The Price is Miller’s funniest play,” notes Timothy Bond. He says much of the humor derives from the character of Solomon, a 90-year-old antic furniture dealer. Miller created him in an attempt to reproduce a “Russian-Yiddish accent that still tickles me whenever I hear it.”

The role of Solomon will be played by Kenneth Tigar, a familiar face from film and television who has appeared in Barney Miller, the Lethal Weapon movies, NCIS and Fringe. Richard McWilliams, whose credits extend from Broadway to the prestigious Guthrie Theatre and the Actors Theatre of Louisville, plays Victor. Walter will be played by Oregon Shakespeare Festival veteran Tony DeBruno. Carmen Roman plays Esther. Roman has appeared in the National Tour of Angels in America as well as in many regional productions including shows at Chicago’s Goodman Theatre and The Alliance Theatre in Atlanta.

“The journeys these characters take in this play go through many levels,” says Bond. “You need a skilled and experienced cast to get them all. This cast is going to find it all—the humor and the deep drama in these complexly intertwined lives.”

Set 40 years after the stock market crash of 1929, The Price explores how economic challenges can impact families and the choices we make. Says Bond, “This play is very much about the potency of history and memory and how they can stop people in their tracks from going forward in their lives. In this specific case, it’s the illusions and delusions created to survive a difficult situation.”

WRITER

Arthur Miller (Playwright) the son of a women’s clothing company owner, was born in 1915 in New York City. His father lost his business in the Depression and the family was forced to move to a smaller home in Brooklyn. After graduating from high school, Miller worked jobs ranging from radio singer to truck driver to clerk in an automobile-parts warehouse. Miller began writing plays as a student at the University of Michigan, joining the Federal Theatre Project in New York City after he received his degree. His first Broadway play, The Man Who Had All the Luck, opened in 1944 and his next play, All My Sons, received the Drama Critics Circle Award. His 1949 Death of a Salesman won the Pulitzer Prize. In 1956 and 1957, Miller was subpoenaed by the House Un-American Activities Committee and was convicted of contempt of Congress for his refusal to identify writers believed to hold Communist sympathies. The following year, the United States Court of Appeals overturned the conviction. In 1959 the National Institute of Arts and Letters awarded him the Gold Medal for Drama. Miller has been married three times: to Mary Grace Slattery in 1940, Marilyn Monroe in 1956, and photographer Inge Morath in 1962. He and Inge had a daughter, Rebecca. Among his works are A View from the Bridge, The Misfits, After the Fall, Incident at Vichy, The Price, The American Clock, Broken Glass, Mr. Peters’ Connections, and Timebends, his autobiography. Miller’s writing has earned him a lifetime of honors, including the Pulitzer Prize, seven Tony Awards, two Drama Critics Circle Awards, an Obie, an Olivier, the John F. Kennedy Lifetime Achievement Award, and the Dorothy and Lillian Gish prize. He was awarded honorary doctorate degrees from Oxford University and Harvard University. He died in 2005.

DIRECTOR

Timothy Bond (Director) is the Producing Artistic Director of Syracuse Stage and the Syracuse University Department of Drama. He has 25 years experience in leading regional theatres throughout the country. Most recently, he served for 11 years as associate artistic director of the famed Oregon Shakespeare Festival where he directed 12 productions, including works by Shakespeare, August Wilson, Suzan-Lori Parks, Edward Albee, Lorraine Hansberry, Lynn Nottage, Octavio Soliz and Pearl Cleage. Prior to that, Bond spent 13 years with the Seattle Group Theatre, serving as Artistic Director from 1991 - 1996. While there he directed more than twenty plays and oversaw the largest capital campaign in the company’s history, culminating in the completion of a new theatre complex in the Seattle Center. Bond has also directed at such prestigious theatres as The Guthrie, Seattle Repertory Theatre, Actors Theatre of Louisville, Milwaukee Repertory Theatre, Cleveland Play House, A Contemporary Theatre, Indiana Repertory Theatre, Geva Theatre, and Arena Stage. Bond received a Theatre Communications Group/National Endowment for the Arts Directing Fellowship Award and has twice won Backstage West’s Garland Award for Outstanding Direction for Les Blancs (1998) and Blues for an Alabama Sky (1997). He served on the board of directors of the Theatre
Communications Group from 1993 to 1997. Bond holds a BFA from Howard University and an MFA (magna cum laude) from the University of Washington.

CAST

Tony DeBruno (Walter) has just completed his 18th season at the Oregon Shakespeare Festival as a member of the acting company. His roles there have included: Shylock in The Merchant of Venice, Gloucester in King Lear, Doc Gibbs in Our Town, Charley in Death of a Salesman, Alfieri in A View from the Bridge, Herr Zangler in On the Razzle, and many more. In recent years, Tony has enjoyed working at many regional theatres including Milwaukee Repertory Theatre, Arizona Theatre Company, and Cincinnati Playhouse in the Park. Tony resides in Ashland, Oregon with his wife Lois, and he is the proud dad of Gillian and Nick.

Richard McWilliams (Victor). Broadway: Orpheus Descending. Off-Broadway: The Night Hank Williams Died and Macbeth.
